A Legacy of Healing, Rebirth and Leadership: A Smithsonian Affiliations Virtual Scholar Talk

FREE

Smithsonian Asian Pacific American Center's Adriel Luis will present and moderate a lively discussion with panelists, Emily Anderson, Ph.D., Curator, Japanese American National Museum, and Jessica Rubenacker, Exhibit Director, Wing Luke Museum of the Asian Pacific American Experience. Emily Anderson will speak about the important role that religious institutions and individuals played in providing a sense of security and stability for Japanese Americans during World War II. This includes sharing research she is currently conducting for an upcoming exhibition she is co-curating titled Sutra and Bible: Faith and Japanese American World War II Incarceration. Jessica Rubenacker present the Wing Luke Museum's recent examples of community healing through art with the Chinatown-International Love Letters campaign, mural project collaboration with artist Moses Sun and more generally the Museum's reopening to the public.

Japanese American in New York: Nikkei Trans-regional Dialogue

$10 suggested donation

Telling the lesser-known history of Nikkei on the East Coast—a community vastly different from West Coast Japanese Americans—author-historian, consultant, and attorney Daniel H. Inouye explores the unique stories of a divided community of Japanese New Yorkers before World War II. Through a wealth of primary sources, including oral histories, memoirs, newspapers, government documents, photographs, and more, his award-winning book Distant Islands: The Japanese American Community in New York City, 1876–1930s dives into the often unacknowledged rich history of New York Japanese American Issei and Nisei.
